

but that he could express the feeling of the management, the board of directors and the operating officials at the great loss sustained, and their appreciation of the long and exceptionally efficient service which Mr. Doyle had rendered to the Chesapeake and Ohio.

Employees Express Grief.

Among the lesser employees and clerks there was genuine grief expressed as the news of Mr. Doyle's death spread yesterday, several men expressing the view that the "boys had lost their best friend in the service."

As general manager he had come into personal contact with a large number of the employees of the road and was widely known and loved. No delegation from the employees ever failed of a hearing, and his negotiations and adjustments of labor disputes were signally successful.

The view is expressed among local officials that his death will not create any change in the working personnel of the road. Mr. Grice has already assumed the duties of general manager, and it is not regarded as probable that the position of vice-president in charge of operation will be filled until the directors have had time to canvass the situation and until negotiations for Western extensions of the system come to a head. It was stated that it would not be necessary for President Stevens to return from Europe, that every contingency had been arranged for and that the operation of the lines would continue as heretofore.

No definite arrangements for the funeral have as yet been made, save that it will be in Richmond, and that the interment will be in Hollywood Cemetery.

NEW MISSIONARIES

Foreign Mission Board Names Sixteen for Work in Far Countries.

Sixteen new missionaries have been appointed by the Foreign Mission Board, which is located in Richmond, in accordance with the decision of the Southern Baptist Convention. This last action of the board brings the number of appointments up to twenty, leaving ten of the thirty arranged for at the last session of the convention, which was held recently in Baltimore, to be made. It is probable that five more appointments will be made at an early date, as that number of candidates have been asked to meet the board. It has been thought best to make these appointments at once, as there is a great number of applications, though the new missionaries will not depart for their respective fields before fall.

A list of the new appointments follows:

Rev. H. M. Harris, of Mississippi, with his wife, who is from Kentucky, for Kai Feng, China; Miss Leonora Scarlett, of Michigan, for Wuchow, China; Miss E. B. Teal, of Georgia, for Yang Chow, China; Miss Pearl Caldwell, of Mississippi, for Lai Chow Fu, China; Miss Laura V. Cox, of North Carolina, field to be decided later; the Rev. C. A. Leonard, of North Carolina, for China; Mr. Eric Corbett, of North Carolina, for China; Miss Mary Anderson, of Mississippi, for Canton, China; Miss Louise Tucker, of Kentucky, for Shanghai, China; the Rev. L. C. Quarles, of Virginia, for South America; the Rev. A. Scott Patterson, of Florida, for Africa; the Rev. J. W. Williams, of Texas, for San Paulo, Brazil; Miss Elsie W. Gilliam, of Virginia, for Shanghai, China; the Rev. E. Gill and wife, of Kentucky, for Rome, Italy.

UNITY LODGE PLANS BIG ANNIVERSARY MEETING

Exercises commemorative of the twenty-sixth anniversary of the organization of Unity Lodge, No. 88, I. O. O. F., will be held at Liberty Hall, over Post-Office Station B, this evening at 8 o'clock. Address will be delivered by G. B. Davis, superintendent of the Laurel Reformatory; Past Grand Master Hill Montague and Past Grand Master C. W. Morris. Miss Viola Dianton, Mrs. Tidal Wallace, Henry Rueger and others will assist in a musical program. All members of the lodge and members of sister lodges, as well as visiting brethren, are invited to attend. No admission will be charged, but no children will be admitted unless accompanied by their parents.

Mr. James Gets Promotion.

Orlo B. James, son of O. D. James, James auditor of freight receipts for the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad, has been appointed solicitor in charge of the Chesapeake and Ohio at Wilmington, N. C. Mr.

DESPERATE BATTLE WITH MOONSHINERS

Hundred Shots Exchanged by Illicit Distillers and Government Forces—More Than 4,000 Gallons of Beer Destroyed.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Winston-Salem, N. C., June 5.—A desperate encounter between revenue officers and mountain distillers featured a three-day raid in Wilkes county, which closed yesterday.

Just as the government officials emerged from a deep ravine on Todd Darnell's place, they were fired upon from ambush. More than 100 shots were exchanged, and it is known that some of the moonshiners received injuries.

The officers, in charge of Deputy Collector J. F. Miller, of Revenue Agent Sam's force, at Asheville, escaped without injury, though Deputy Marshal C. H. Holland, had his mount shot from under him.

The raid was the most memorable of the past several years in Wilkes county, once noted for its nests of illicit distillers, and now holding a close call for the old honors.

The officers located and destroyed three large distilleries including over 4,000 gallons of beer. Only one arrest was made, this being Rudolph Farrington, a noted Wilkes moonshiner, and the battle that raged for more than an hour was equal to some of the hottest skirmishes of the days of James, who has been secretary to E. D. Hotchkiss for a number of years, left for Wilmington yesterday.

FAMOUS WRITER DIES IN NEW YORK

about the city seeking adventure as the people of the "Arabian Nights" did in Bagdad.

Was Preparing New Play.

Asheville, N. C., June 5.—William Sidney Porter, who died in New York to-day, spent much of his time in this city. He was prominently connected with the Worth family in the eastern part of the State. As a young man he served as a drug clerk in Greensboro, and when just past his majority went to Texas, where he engaged in ranching and commercial pursuits. He drifted to Houston and began his newspaper work on the Houston Post, and while there married. From Houston he went to New York and continued his newspaper work, and also began writing his short stories of the plains, which immediately attracted attention. His first wife died after he went to New York.

While writing under the nom de plume of "O. Henry" his work attracted the attention of Miss Sarah Lindsay Coleman, of this city, who herself was writing under the nom de plume of Sarah Lindsay. Inquiries made of her publishers revealed the fact that they were old friends, having had a youthful attachment while he was still a school boy in Texas. This old attachment resulted in their marriage in this city about two years ago.

Mr. Porter spent the past nine months here working on a new play, and intended to return as soon as he had made some arrangements to make Asheville his permanent home.

Child Is Drowned.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Monterey, Va., June 5.—An eighteen-month-old child of John Wolf, three miles south of here, was drowned in Jackson's River last afternoon, having fallen from a foot bridge near the little body had washed several hundred yards down stream.

Snow in Mountains.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Monterey, Va., June 5.—Parties coming in from the West Virginia border report a snow squall on Alleghany mountain Friday. The mountain top was covered for a few hours.

Pastor Resigns.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Lynchburg, Va., June 5.—Rev. John C. Peery, for five years pastor of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, resigned today to take the presidency of the Marion Female College. He will go to Marion July 1. He is a native of Culpeper county.

Towed to Port.

Norfolk, Va., June 5.—With her fore and main masts gone, and her rigging dangling, the schooner Mary L. Crosby was towed to port the Virginia Lightship today by the British steamer Danubian. The schooner, on her way north from Wilmington, N. C., loaded with lumber, was reported yesterday southwest of Diamond Shoal Lightship in a distressed condition.

OLDEST INHABITANTS TELL HOW IT WAS IN THEIR DAY

And They Didn't Have Cold Weather in June Then, and Watermelons Came Earlier, and It Must Be Due to Mr. Halley's Comet.

Oldest inhabitants, those who have almost reached the summit of years, the pinnacle from which one looks back on life, and dreams are talking, reminding the generation of yesterday and to-day that there was never such a June before. The Junes of their day were sunny and filled with the mirth of birds and the pleasant hum of the bees. There was no snow nor hail in their first months of summer, and the boys used to go swimming in the hole at the turn of the river before June had come. And when they weren't swimming, they were filling their stomachs with their neighbors' cherries, and incidentally taking their mamas in the wee small hours for a drop of soothing syrup, which was always kept in the closet under the stairs, for cherry and green-apple time.

And so the old inhabitants are wondering if Mr. Halley's comet is causing such unprecedented weather. They remember hearing when they were toddlers before trousers that their parents whispered in awe of the appearance of the starry wanderer, seventy-five years ago, and that Halley's comet is blamed for the weather, its coldness, its quality of melancholy and the mysterious feeling of fear and doubt which occasionally chases these old people when they spend their remaining moments of life in looking back when all was June.

Maybe it is Halley's comet which caused so many to go home at dawn yesterday and forget where they last left the keyhole. Maybe it is Mr. Halley's comet which sent so many to the station houses to spend the night in uneasy repose and awake them with headache which betokens a forgotten vice and a night with boon companions. The excuse was easy, for when a man who occasionally nibbles at the mint, could resist, another, yet another and then a nightcap or a night or cold? He told his wife that he couldn't help it, that he feared he would catch cold, perhaps pneumonia. And, of course, she saw that he had been consuming something that the water wagon which he had promised so faithfully to drive had broken and hurled him upon a bar, with one foot resting easily on the rail and an elbow firmly planted on the counter. That is the usual way of landing when the wagon breaks down and the driver is remembered that she had heard this same story told often before. But still that didn't help the ancient inhabitants to account for the weather in the first days of June, and they were no wiser after the last sip of Virginia nectar than they were when the doctor entered the mirrored palace and told their troubles to the barkeep.

And beyond this, it is a fact that many people are wondering and complaining of the coldness, and Director Evans, who has charge of the weather, will be called on for an explanation. The oldest inhabitants say that the climate has changed, that Hanover watermelons used to come sooner, and that the mint beds were more plentiful and the concomitant better and cheaper. And on top of this it is known as a scientific fact that climate does change, that the sun is gradually growing

Will Be Ordained.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Chester, Pa., June 5.—Walter J. Young, a graduate of Richmond College, '07, will be ordained to the gospel ministry of the Baptist Church on Sunday at the First Baptist Church, Chester, Pa. Mr. Young graduates with the master of arts degree this June at the University of Pennsylvania, and has also received the degree of bachelor of divinity at the Crozer Theological Seminary, where, as a speaker on the commencement program, he was declared the orator of the day. He has many friends in Richmond and Virginia, and will supply for part of the month of June by a blent pastorate at Waverly, Va. Not entering immediately into the pastorate, he will return to Philadelphia next year to pursue work leading to the doctor's degree at the university, where he has been awarded the Harrison scholarship in psychology.

Report of Capture Confirmed.

New Orleans, La., June 5.—Confirmed reports received here today substantiate the news that General Chavarria, defeated at Elrecreo yesterday, and who took to flight up the river at Elrecreo de Las Buelles, was captured soon after his flight by General Mena.

Acting Consul-General A. J. Olivier, of the Central American republic of Guatemala, declared he and his staff had been informed of the capture of General Chavarria and that he had predicted this for several days.

New Orleans merchants who depend on the Nicaraguan trade say they are distressed with the action of the State Department. They say the announcement that the Madrid government will not be allowed to collect duties at the regular Bluefields custom-house, which has fallen into its hands, is a most extraordinary proceeding and in direct conflict with the accepted usages of international law.

PERSONAL AND BRIEFS

Mrs. Rosa Lee Eubank, widow of William S. Eubank, announces the engagement of her daughter, Estelle Ragland, to Waverly B. Pollard. The wedding will take place at home on Thursday morning, June 16.

A meeting of the Richmond City Mission will be held this morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Woman's Christian Association Building, 711 East Franklin street. A full attendance is requested.

C. C. Cox, who was operated on for appendicitis at the Virginia Hospital Thursday night, is improving.

Richmond T. Lacy, Jr., chief clerk in City Attorney Pollard's office, is an engaged man. He is expected to be able to leave there within the next week.

Depot and Store Burn.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Bristol, Va., June 5.—A fire broke out at Benham's, burned last night, due to the electric storm which swept over this section. Traffic was delayed on the Virginia and Southwestern Railway on account of fallen trees. Houses were unroofed in the country near Bristol while beams were overturned. No fatalities are reported.

OBITUARY

Mrs. John Carroll.

Mrs. John Carroll, seventy-eight years old, died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. J. D. Hawks, 2112 West Cary street, at 4 o'clock yesterday morning.

She leaves four sons and three daughters—John W., James T., Michael and Daniel; Mrs. James Allen, of Hanover county, Va., and Mrs. J. D. Hawks; and also a number of grandchildren. She was born in County Cork, Ireland. She came to Virginia in 1853. She leaves two brothers—John and Eugene Harrington.

The funeral will be from Sacred Heart Cathedral at 4 o'clock to-morrow afternoon.

Dr. William H. Gibbs.

Dr. William H. Gibbs died at 2:45 o'clock yesterday morning in the home of his nephew, F. Ellis Jones, of Englewood, D. C. Dr. Gibbs was born in New York City October 30, 1834, the son of Dr. William H. Gibbs, Sr., and Mary Rumford, his wife, both of Kent, England. He was a Confederate veteran, having served through the first part of the war as a field surgeon. In the latter part of the war he was surgeon at the famous Libby Prison. Since the war and up to fifteen years ago he was in the drug business.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at 4 o'clock from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. J. D. Hawks, 2112 West Cary street, at 4 o'clock yesterday morning.

BACK IN CAPITAL

Taft Goes to White House, Refusing to See Any One.

Washington, June 5.—President Taft returned to the capital to-night, reaching here at 8:41 o'clock. He entered a waiting automobile and was driven to the White House. He was accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Charles D. Taft, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, who begins his new duties to-morrow as secretary to the President. It was the first time Mr. Taft had been able to confer with Mr. Taft since his appointment.

The President was highly pleased with the enthusiasm shown by the crowds that greeted him at all the railroad stations at which the presidential train stopped to-day. Although there was a steady downpour of rain, cheering crowds hailed Mr. Taft, who spoke briefly at several points.

DR. KILGO DELIVERS SERMON TO GRADUATES.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Durham, N. C., June 5.—Trinity college began its fifty-first commencement to-night, when Dr. John C. Kilgo, D. D., LL. D., delivered the baccalaureate address in Craven Memorial Hall. A choir consisting of thirty-five of the best voices in Durham furnished music for the occasion. Dr. Kilgo, in his characteristic style, delivered a masterful address. There was, however, a feeling of pathos hovering over the large body, for they knew that the doctor would not occupy a similar position again, since his election to that office will not permit his remaining president.

The theme of the president's speech bore along the lines of the disillusionment of life on the part of many graduates who go out of colleges.

FOUND IN PUBLIC ROAD, DIES OF HIS INJURIES

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

Petersburg, Va., June 5.—Pamper Hicks, of Chesterfield county, who was found fatally injured last night in the public road near Petersburg, with his skull fractured and cuts and bruises about the face, died in the hospital here this morning. He leaves a widow and two children.

An inquest was held this afternoon, but there was no evidence to show in what manner the injuries had been inflicted. The doctors said that death was due to cerebral hemorrhage and that the injuries were caused by a blunt instrument, a wagon wheel or by being struck by an automobile. Hicks was on his way home, and his money was found in his pockets and his basket of provisions near by.

The Cable Piano Company's SALE OF Exposition Pianos

Is a Remarkable Success

On account of lack of space in the booths at the Horse Show Building during the recent National Piano Exhibit, and the crowded condition of our salesrooms since the exhibit, one carload of Exposition Pianos—which we purchased—has remained in the car, and we have paid demurrage charges on this shipment for nearly a month.

We have now found space on our floors, and these Extra Fine Pianos have been added to those remaining of the original five carloads, and therefore we have determined to continue our sale, thus giving further opportunity to those who desire to purchase one of the high-grade Exposition Pianos.

Basing our advice on the experience of the past two weeks, we have no hesitancy in saying, Come quickly to secure choice of styles of the world's finest Pianos from the factories of the Conover, the Cable, the Kingsbury the Wellington, the Schubert, the DeKoven, the De Rives & Harris, the Radle, the Jepson and the Cote.
